Mr. Don Giordano,

There have been a number of comparisons of todays workplace with those back when people seemed to be more important, when good measure was given. It is rare to encounter such as these today. You and Entel however, have provided ample evidence that the customer and service are very important to you. Regulus had a particularly critical service/installation problem and you answered every request, handled every change and restored service in short order. I could not have asked for better cooperation or results. I would consider it a pleasure to offer recommendation of the service provided by Entel.

Sincerely,
